Alex [2:15 PM]: Dad just rejected my entire modernization proposal

Mary [2:16 PM]: Again? What was his excuse this time?

Alex [2:16 PM]: "Too risky" and "our current systems work fine" 🙄

Mary [2:17 PM]: He's going to run this company into the ground

Alex [2:18 PM]: We're losing contracts because we can't keep up with modern demands

Mary [2:19 PM]: I know. The board is getting nervous too

Alex [2:20 PM]: He needs to get with the times or get out

Mary [9:30 AM]: Just lost the Peterson account

Alex [9:31 AM]: What? They were our biggest potential client!

Mary [9:32 AM]: They went with Turner Corp. Said their digital integration was better

Alex [9:33 AM]: We need to do something before he ruins everything

Mary [9:34 AM]: The board meeting next week is crucial

Alex [9:35 AM]: If only he'd just go away and let us run things

Mary [10:15 AM]: These Q4 numbers are terrible

Alex [10:16 AM]: I know. Dad's still refusing to see it

Mary [10:17 AM]: The board needs to see these numbers. This can't continue

Alex [10:18 AM]: Working on the presentation now. This has to end

Mary [10:19 AM]: Be careful how you phrase things. We need to be strategic

Alex [11:20 PM]: Still at the office. Going through all the files

Mary [11:21 PM]: Don't stay too late

Alex [11:22 PM]: Have to get this done. Dad's finally going to face reality
